About me

Although I'm a civil servant and have + 8 years of experience in public administration, logistics and, also, has been selected to another ones, I've decided to change my career and join in a new world, developing tools that are changing world business.

I'm a self-taught Python and Django, Linux and open source community lover, who believes that learning align with IT, can elevate society to greater inclusion and diversity of people and ideas, besides improve the companys and products.

Right now, I'm learning others skills, like Django Rest and PostgreSQL.
